“SNUAC’s Vision for the 21st Century: Pioneering a New Future for Asian Studies through the Adoption of a Convergent and Interdisciplinary Approach”

Message from the Director

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the establishment of Seoul National University Asia Center (SNUAC), established in 2009 with the vision of becoming a global hub of Asian studies through the production and sharing of interdisciplinary and cross-regional knowledge that can provide important insights for Asia’s future. Over the past ten years, SNUAC has endeavored greatly to become an outstanding institute of research on Asia.

The year 2018 witnessed the establishment of various strategies for the systematic accumulation and dissemination of the results of research undertaken at SNUAC during the past ten years. As a large-scale, general research institute where research activities, academic exchange, and the accumulation and dissemination of research materials are organically intertwined, SNUAC aims to address the needs of society and the state by developing various channels through which the rich knowledge and research findings that have been acquired and produced by the institute can be shared.

SNUAC has set up five regional research centers in order to facilitate an even and in-depth study of all regions across Asia, and has also actively supported interdisciplinary studies that go beyond the traditional boundaries of humanities-based and social sciences-based research, thereby cementing its status as one of the world’s leading institutes of Asian studies. SNUAC’s webzine, Diverse+Asia, was launched with the aim of providing a platform where specialist analyses on the most critical challenges and issues facing the region could be presented, shared, and discussed. Work has also begun on the development of an ‘Asia Regional Knowledge Sharing System’ which will allow information on Asia produced by native researchers to be actively shared, thereby providing these native researchers with greater agency in a field of study where the perceptiveness of ‘the Other’ has tended to dominate, and leading the way towards a framework for pan-Asian cooperation in policy making. In the past year, SNUAC has also actively maintained relations of exchange and cooperation with other institutions based at SNU undertaking education and research on Asia, as well as with specialists and institutions based within and outside South Korea.

In 2019, on the 10th anniversary of the institute’s establishment, SNUAC plans to undertake numerous efforts to realize its vision for the 21st century by pioneering a new future for Asian studies through the adoption of a convergent and interdisciplinary approach. We would like to thank those of you who have continued to look upon SNUAC with great affection and have provided the institute with generous support. Furthermore, we ask for your participation in the various academic events that will take place this autumn in order to celebrate the SNUAC’s 10th anniversary.

April, 2019

Director of SNUAC Park, Soo Jin

SNUAC in 2018

Establishing a Platform for Interdisciplinary and Convergent Research Integrating the Regions and Research Themes of Asia

In 2018, SNUAC's resources were focused towards the establishment of a platform for interdisciplinary and convergent research integrating the regions and research themes of Asia. In the first phase of the Asia Basic Research Program (2013-2017), SNUAC's regional research centers, thematic research centers, and numerous programs were actively engaged in the production, accumulation, and dissemination of a vast amount of information. Two additional regional research centers – focusing, respectively, on West Asia and South Asia – were established, thereby expanding the institute's spatial scope of research; the International Development Co-operation Research Center was also opened in 2018. In addition, the Regional Information Dissemination Center was launched in order to actively disseminate the results of the past ten years of research, which had been systematically collected and categorized, and to stimulate academic networking between Korean and foreign based researchers specializing in Asia. SNUAC's regional networks were also strengthened and expanded with the aim of developing the Korean Social Science Data Archive (KOSSDA), affiliated to the institute, into a dissemination hub of regional information on Asia. The institute also undertook various forms of interdisciplinary research and published several research volumes.

SNUAC Ranked as One of SNU's Top Tier Research Institutes

A diverse range of NRF funded research projects focusing on Asia were carried out at SNUAC. In 2018, ten research projects (amounting to a total of 1.68 billion won in funding) were undertaken at the institute. In addition to these projects, which were focused on pure research, four policy research projects (amounting to a total of 325 million won) were also carried out. In conjunction with these projects, SNUAC hosted over one hundred academic events facilitating academic exchange and networking. The publication of research volumes on Asia was also actively supported by the institute. A total of seven volumes in were published by SNU Press as part of the 'SNUAC Monograph Series' (English and Korean); a total of six volumes were published by Zininzin Press as part of the 'SNUAC Asian Studies in a Global Context Series' and the 'SNUAC Modern History Series.' Of these volumes, five were awarded 'Excellent Book' status by the Nat'l Academy of Sciences, Korea. On account of these efforts to strengthen the foundations of basic research on Asia, SNUAC was ranked as one of SNU's top tier research institutes in 2018.

Supporting Cultural Exchange in Asia

'Thailand Culture Week' was held in November of 2018 to celebrate the 60th anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between Thailand and the Republic of Korea. The week was marked by various academic seminars and cultural events highlighting Korean-Thai relations, as well as Thai food, tourism, and popular culture. The first day of Thailand Culture Week began with an academic seminar where speeches of welcome and congratulation were given by SooJin Park (SNUAC Director), Chanwook Park (Acting President of SNU), and Hyuck Lee (Asean-Korea Centre Secretary General), followed by thematic lectures by Jaeman Jeon (Korean Nat'l Diplomatic Academy Adviser, Former Ambassador to Thailand), Hongkoo Kim (Busan Univ. of Foreign Studies), Nhuan Noi (Inst. of Asian Studies of Thailand Chulakorn Univ., Director), and Jinpyo Yoon (Sungshin Univ). Ambassador Singtong Lapisatepun of Thailand gave a lecture on 'Diplomatic Relations between Thailand and the Republic of Korea' and participated in a round table attended by on- and off-campus students from Thailand. Thailand Culture Week was attended by many important people, based on- and off-campus, with links to Thailand and Southeast Asia, and therefore provided a valuable opportunity to establish networks with a diverse range of specialists. In addition, through the enthusiastic participation of Thai and Korean students, it was possible to gain a better understanding of Thailand and to widely share that knowledge, allowing Thailand Culture Week to function as an important event of exchange and cooperation between the two countries.

Educating and Nurturing the Next Generation of Scholars

SNUAC operates various programs that provide support to the next generation of scholars. The 'SNUAC Dissertation Writing Fellowship' endowed three doctorate students in the last stage of their dissertation research with grants that allowed them to focus purely on research. Four master's and doctorate students were presented with the 'SNUAC Dissertation Award.' Fieldwork grants, covering living and travel expenses, were also awarded to master's and doctorate students.

In addition, SNUAC hosted a 'Research Internship Program' with the purpose of nurturing future specialists in Asian studies. Twenty-one students from Korean and foreign institutions were selected as 'research interns' and they participated in programs that integrated education and research administration. The research activities and exchange networks of on-campus int'l students from Asia were also supported through the 'Friends of Asia.'

The Beginning of a New Research Network Program and the Fruits of Previous Programs of Int'l Exchange and Cooperation

In 2018, SNUAC successfully expanded its research exchange network by setting up a 'Visiting Scholar Fellowship Program' and hosting eleven researchers specializing in Asian studies as part of this new program. In addition to this, twelve visiting scholars from six different countries were also based at SNUAC, contributing to the institute's efforts towards collaborative research. The institute also co-hosted large-scale, int'l academic events with key research institutes based abroad, and used these opportunities to disseminate, both locally and internationally, the results of research undertaken at SNUAC. These academic events include the following:

Korea and Vietnam in the Modern and Contemporary Ages (June 2018, Seoul), Social Well-Being in the Asian Context (June 2018, Seoul), InterAsian Connections VI: Hanoi (December 2018, Hanoi), Hate Speech in Asia and Europe (January 2019, Paris).

New foundations for research cooperation were also established between SNUAC and Nat'l Taiwan Univ, Thailand's Chulalongkorn Univ, and Chittagong Independent Univ. in Bangladesh. Scholars from Japan, China, Southeast Asia, Europe, and North America also visited SNUAC to present their most recent research findings. Foreign scholars to have visited the institute in 2018 include the following: Michael Feener (Oxford Centre for Islamic Studies), Tin Maung Maung Than Than (ISEAS-Yusof Ishak Inst), Dang Nguyen Anh (Vietnamese Academy of Social Sciences), Chong-Sik Lee (Univ. of Pennsylvania), Gary Gereffi (Duke Univ).
